Lee Killough has written a series of superior stories for F&SF that share a common theme (the future of the arts) and background (an artist's colony called Aventine). The tales are completely separate entities and may be enjoyed on their own. This one concerns the visit to Aventine of Selene and Amanda, two different personalities that share the body of one beautiful young woman. She's in the kitchen right now, fixing Robbie's formula. I'll go get her." She turned. "For my sake? Matthew, please don't lie to me again." There were tears in her voice. Nolan hadn't anticipated the intensity of his own reaction. But now, after the long trip back in the wheezing launch, he stood beside the crib in the spare bedroom and gazed down at his son with an overwhelming surge of pride. Her voice faltered only a little but her hands began to shake. The orange in the chair's color went. "Sometimes it does you good to feel gloomy." One of the pills insisted on getting stuck in his throat. 19. Nolan nodded, flexing his cramped limbs. He stepped out onto the dock, then hurried up the path. Said the red-head, while curling a tress, "There have been (tho' I should not confess), "What sort of deal?" "I am very anxious to see you at the happiest moment of your life," said Amos. I realize I can't see. "No kidding!" "What's it like on a ranch?" But I couldn't figure out a pattern for the victims: male, female, little kids, old aunts, married, Nolan put his arm around her. "Why don't you go lie down? Mama Dolores can look after Robbie." off with great conviction. "You knew when my license would expire, and you've just been stringing me. Her expression mercurially alters to sadness. "You're scissors, Robbie. All shiny cold metal. How can you ever hope to cut stone?" The captain wheels savagely, face mottled, teeth bared, arms windmilling with rage. I have never seen. At intervals that varied unpredictably the furniture within this living room would rearrange itself, and suddenly you would find yourself face-to-face with a new conversational partner. You could also, for a few dollars more, hire a sofa or armchair that you could drive at liberty among the other chairs, choosing your partners rather than leaving them to chance. Relatively few patrons of Partyland exercised this option, since the whole point of the place was that you could just sit back and let your chair do the driving.
